Money is reported a shade easier in the East, but the quotations of gold, stocks and Government securities show a very feverish market.

Pittsburgh and Cleveland railroad stock, we believe, has been selling down to an unusually low point.

Our advices from Philadelphia are to the following effect:

"The increased ease in money is not stimulating either business or prices in the Stock market. The former, it is true, is somewhat brisker than during the late pressure; but prices stubbornly refuse to advance with any degree of rapidity or permanency. The expected spring rise has not yet made its advent. The securities known as speculative, are not eagerly sought after, capitallists seeking investments preferring the United States bonds, and lons of the State and city. The market to-day was a fraction weaker, and, at the lower figures, the holders of fancy stocks evince but little disposition to sell. Their confidence is brisker and higher markets continues undiminished." to the following effect:

The recent panicky feeling in New York was increased by a rumor that the banks were compelled to pay out their Compound Interest Notes, which, for the moment had a certain effect upon stocks, although without a shadow of truth, and ridiculously timprobable at a time when the Sub-Treasprobable at a time when the Sub-Tri ury is taking them at a premium.
